Dear Fulbright (prospective) applicants,

At present we are sending Fulbright email information to roughly 130 people and have a bit more information on roughly 80 prospective applicants, but see open Fulbright applications for only about 35 of you. As we get closer to the September 10 deadline, it is important that the WU Fulbright Campus Committee have a sense of how many applicants we need to review and accommodate for interviews. While it is perfectly fine if you are receiving the emails as a way of anticipating next year’s process or are a recent alumnus of WU who may wish to apply as an at-large applicant, if you intend to apply through WU this year it is essential that you begin the on-line application promptly. Once you have completed the first section of your on-line application and indicated WU as your home institution, we will be able to track your application. The on-line Fulbright application requires that a lot of information be corralled and entered, it is the vehicle for recommendation and language evaluation forms to be deployed, and is the place where you must upload your essays, transcripts and, if relevant, your letters of affiliation. It takes more time to complete than you think (and you will have less time when classes begin), so start chipping away now!

Best wishes,

Dr. Amy Suelzer - WU Fulbright Program Advisor

Ms. Toni Loomis – WU Fulbright Application Coordinator
